

I disagree with the banks trying to oppose the no call listing, it is not fair that they feel like they should call people fifty times a day. I do believe that they probably would not like for someone to constantly call them over and over. It is my right to choose whom should call me and whom not to. I am very disappointed.